

ABSTRACT

In an industrial complex composed of a plurality of plants, at least one of the plants is provided with a service section, specifically, analyzers, for providing a service for at least one of the plants in accordance with the request from at least one of the plants. A virtual service center, that is, a virtual analysis center, is composed of the analyzers and a server.